The Evolution of Intellectual Property Disputes

The growing importance and significance of the Internet have brought along numerous challenges to legal thoughts, approaches and systems.

Today, and increasingly in the years to come, Internet is disrupting the national and international landscapes. Multiple norms (national and international; private and public; trade, investment or purely IP focused) and dispute settlement mechanisms (litigation, arbitration, mediation) associated to different legal remedies (reparation, compensation, compliance) can be used to devise innovative and complex legal strategies.

Join our domain name and intellectual property experts as they exchange their views on salient issues pertaining to Intellectual Property disputes and assess cutting-edge legal approaches towards the cyberspace and its multifaceted challenges.

Topics include:

- Threats to domain names? New weapons against cybersquatting*
